

Acknowledgements

 <https://doi.org/10.1075/chlel.xxv.01ack>

Page ix of

History of the Literary Cultures of East-Central Europe. Volume IV: Types and stereotypes : Junctures and disjunctures in the 19th and 20th centuries

Edited by Marcel Cornis-Pope and John Neubauer

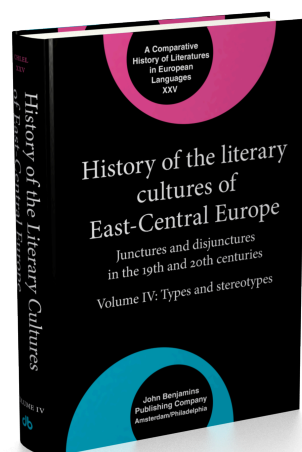

[Comparative History of Literatures in European Languages, XXV]

2010. xi, 714 pp.

© John Benjamins B.V. / Association Internationale de Littérature Comparée

This electronic file may not be altered in any way. For any reuse of this material written permission should be obtained from the publishers or through the Copyright Clearance Center (for USA: www.copyright.com).

For further information, please contact rights@benjamins.nl or consult our website at benjamins.com/rights

Acknowledgments

The list of those friends and colleagues who have helped us over the years to complete this volume and the four-volume project in its entirety is too long for a full inclusion here, but we shall always remember each of them for their readiness to help us out with major and minor questions. All we can do here is to acknowledge with gratitude a few sources of institutional support and some intense personal engagements that helped make this volume possible.

On the institutional side, we thank the Collegium Budapest, which has awarded a grant to John Neubauer to work specifically on this volume. Marcel Cornis-Pope has received support from the English Department of Virginia Commonwealth University to be able to attend the meetings of the Coordinating Committee, which oversees our publication. Ute Raßloff's essay on Jánošík has been supported by the German Federal Ministry of Education and Research (BMBF), funding no. 01UG0710. The Allard Pierson Stichting at the University of Amsterdam has generously provided a support of € 2000 to cover a part of our copy editing expenses.

Turning to matters relating to content and intellectual support, we wish to thank the re-constituted Coordinating Committee of the International Comparative Literature Society, and especially to Margaret Higonnet, for steadfast belief in our project, which meant even more to us than the financial aid that we have received for this and all the previous volumes of our History. We want to thank here also the two referees that the Committee asked to evaluate our project. They did a careful and conscientious work that has been of great help to us in preparing the final version of our text. It is entirely our responsibility if, inevitably, readers still find weaknesses in a project that can never be perfect. If we have, indeed, come somewhat closer to perfection in style and consistency, we owe this to Keith Landers, who has done a wonderful job copy editing most articles in this volume.