

Acknowledgments

 <https://doi.org/10.1075/cilt.208.ack>

Page xi of

Whose German?: The ach/ich alternation and related phenomena in 'standard' and 'colloquial'

Orrin W. Robinson

[Current Issues in Linguistic Theory, 208] 2001. xi, 169 pp.

© John Benjamins Publishing Company

This electronic file may not be altered in any way. For any reuse of this material written permission should be obtained from the publishers or through the Copyright Clearance Center (for USA: www.copyright.com).

For further information, please contact rights@benjamins.nl or consult our website at benjamins.com/rights

Acknowledgments

Parts of earlier versions of this book have been presented to the Stanford Linguistics Colloquium and to GLAC 4 and GLAC 5. I would like to thank participants in those fora for questions and comments which have helped to focus and clarify my claims and arguments. In addition, I would like to thank three anonymous referees for Current Issues in Linguistic Theory, and its Editor, E. F. K. Koerner, for many useful comments and criticisms which have led to (I hope) a better book. Special thanks go to Joe Salmons, who presented an earlier version of this book to a class at the University of Wisconsin, and conveyed to me the results of their discussions (and his own unique insights) in a lengthy and extremely helpful critique. He even reemerged at the end of this process to help me find a better title. Finally, I owe to my wife Brigid the joy of life and peace of mind which enables one to write a book at all. Only thing is, another may be aborning.

Orrin W. Robinson
Palo Alto, May 2000