

Foreword

 <https://doi.org/10.1075/cilt.85.01for>

Pages vii–viii of

Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics: Papers from the Annual Symposium on Arabic Linguistics . Volume IV: Detroit, Michigan 1990

Edited by Ellen Broselow, Mushira Eid and John McCarthy
[Current Issues in Linguistic Theory, 85] 1992. viii, 282 pp.

© John Benjamins Publishing Company

This electronic file may not be altered in any way. For any reuse of this material written permission should be obtained from the publishers or through the Copyright Clearance Center (for USA: www.copyright.com).

For further information, please contact rights@benjamins.nl or consult our website at benjamins.com/rights

FOREWORD

On March 2-3, 1990 the Fourth Annual Symposium on Arabic Linguistics was held at Wayne State University in Detroit. The symposium was sponsored by the Arabic Linguistic Society, Wayne State University's Department of Near Eastern and Asian Studies, Office of the Dean of Liberal Arts, and Linguistics Program, together with the University of Utah's College of Humanities, Department of Languages and Literature, and Linguistics Program.

A total of 16 papers were presented at the symposium; of these, 11 are published in this volume. The papers presented at the symposium were selected on the basis of an anonymous review of abstracts submitted to the Program Committee. The papers included in the volume were further reviewed by the editors before their final acceptance for publication.

The transcription of all Arabic materials in the body of the papers follows the International Phonetic Alphabet or standard equivalents. The Arabic emphatics, however, are represented by a dot underneath the symbol, and long vowels as sequences of two vowels. The transliteration of Arabic names and titles follows accepted formats, with some simplification in the use of diacritics. We have used ' and ' for hamza (glottal stop) and 'ayn (pharyngeal approximant), respectively. In quoted materials we followed the original text.

The preparation and printing of the final manuscript was done using facilities available at the Middle East Center of the University of Utah, Salt Lake City. We would also like to acknowledge the editorial assistance of Eric Olson, a student of Linguistics and Arabic Linguistics at the University of Utah.

