ACKNOWLEDGMENT

For permission to reprint Leonard Bloomfield's book, An Introduction to the Study of Language (New York, 1914) I would like to thank the publisher Holt, Rinehart & Winston, and Ms Mary McGowan, Manager, Rights and Permissions Department.*

Thanks are also due to my colleague and friend Joseph F. Kess for having contributed an introductory article to the present reprinting of Bloomfield's first book, and to Charles F. Hockett of Cornell University, for commenting on an earlier draft of my Foreword, suggesting substantial revisions of content and form. It is in recognition of his important contribution to a re-evaluation of Bloomfield's oeuvre that the present volume is dedicated to him.

Ottawa, Easter 1981

Konrad Koerner

* Contrary to my earlier observation (see footnote 10 of the Foreword), I was lucky enough, during my sojourn at the Newberry Library in Fall 1982, to locate a photograph of Leonard Bloomfield as a man in his thirties at the University of Chicago. I would like to express my thanks to Mr. Daniel Meyer – of the Library Archives for having provided me with a copy on which the present picture is based. – Prof. C.F. Hockett kindly furnished the photocopy for the reproduction of Bloomfield's signature.
