The seeds to this volume were planted during a symposium that took place at the University of Paris III, Sorbonne Nouvelle in April 2000. The original participants to the symposium were Marlyse Baptista, Viviane Déprez, Karl Gadelii, Alain Kihm, Anne Zribi-Hertz and Herby Glaude. In 2002, we launched this volume with the final list of contributors representative of 15 different creole languages.

We are thankful to all the authors for responding to and for tolerating gracefully our numerous queries and editorial demands. Thanks to their patience and willingness to explore with us the nominal domain of creole languages, we feel that this volume has achieved a more in-depth and accurate picture of creole nominal systems.

We thank an anonymous reviewer for valuable suggestions that allowed us to clarify a number of theoretical and descriptive issues.

We also thank three research assistants at the University of Georgia for their help in proof-reading the manuscript at various stages, Elise Amacker, Julia Tigner and Betsy Wang.

We also wish to acknowledge Kees Vaes and Martine van Marsbergen for their continuing support and immense patience.
