Acknowledgements

I am indebted to a great many friends, colleagues and students for their help and support during the writing process of this book. In alphabetical order I would like to thank Andrei Avram, Marlyse Baptista, Angela Bartens, Tabea Behr, Jennifer Bielek, Hugo Cardoso, Michel DeGraff, Geneviève Escure, Bart Jacobs, Vijay John, Christine Jourdan, Claudia Lange and her students, Yasim Lieberum, Hannah McCulloch, Pieter C. Muysken, Mikael Parkvall, Peter L. Patrick, Mona Rinn, Charlotte Schaengold, Armin Schwegler, Rachel Selbach, Eeva Sippola, M. Anissa Strommer, Margot van den Berg and Craig Volker for sharing data and sources, helping with the snapshots, and giving general comments and encouragement. Special thanks to Kimberly J. Gilbert for getting me started on R-maps.

I wish I could properly thank Thomas Klein, who prematurely passed away in the autumn of 2014. He will be much missed.

I am extremely grateful to Peter Bakker and Ian Hancock for their enormous help with sources and snapshots, to Christine Stuka for her tireless help in hunting and gathering literature and to Damaris Neuhof for her proofreading help.

Special thanks to Umberto Ansaldo, Anthony Grant and Miriam Meyerhoff for their generous and helpful comments on the manuscript of the book.

Very special thanks to Philip Baker for his comments and help with the manuscript, as well as his incredible generosity in not only sending me loads of data, sources and literature, but also life-saving chutney from across the ocean.

Very special thanks also to Sarah J. Roberts and Sandra Götz not only for invaluable comments and help with the manuscript, but also for their constant support and patience during my writing process.

Last but foremost my thanks go to my husband Magnus Huber, to whom this book is dedicated.
