Acknowledgements

The idea for this book originated in the project Red-Letter Days in Transition: Calendric Public Rituals and the Articulation of Identities in Central Europe and the Balkans 1985 to Present, funded by the Faculty of Humanities, University of Oslo, 2008–2010. Some initial ideas were discussed at a workshop held at the University of Oslo in November 2009. Adding new inspiration, Biljana Dragišić, Betine Hufllätten, and Irfan Turković wrote their master's theses as part of the project.

We are grateful to the Faculty of Humanities for funding the Red-Letter Days project, the workshop, and all other activities related to this book.

We would also like to thank the project's research assistants engaged in various activities directly and indirectly related to this book at different stages: Biljana Dragišić, Dragana Kovačević, Hanna Maria Heggem Holmene, Agnes Banach, Aleksandra Bartoszko, Marko Soldić, and Kristina Tanasković.

Many thanks are due to the authors for their cooperation during the compilation process, and to the copyeditor of the final manuscript, Frank Azevedo, for his work and comments to improve the manuscript.

Draft chapters were commented on by our colleagues Kristian Gerner, Christina Schäffner, Ulrich Schmid, and Stefan Troebst. Special thanks go to them for the time invested in this book project, and all the valuable suggestions and advice at various stages of the book's development.

We are indebted to the two anonymous reviewers, whose insightful comments and suggestions helped the authors improve their chapters, and to the series editors at Benjamins, who agreed to include this edited volume in the DAPSAC series.

We would like to thank the following copyright holders:

- The Montenegrin newspaper Pobjeda for permission to reproduce the illustrations in Chapter 4.
- The Croatian newspapers Novi list, Slobodna Dalmacija, and Vjesnik for permission to reproduce the illustrations in Chapter 5.
- The Czech News Agency (CTK) for permission to reproduce the illustrations in Chapter 10.
- The Polish newspaper Gazeta Wyborcza for permission to reproduce the illustrations in Chapter 12.
