

Acknowledgements

 <https://doi.org/10.1075/pbns.229.02ack>

 Available under a CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license.

Page xiii of

(In)Appropriate Online Behavior: A pragmatic analysis of message board relations

Jenny Arendholz

[Pragmatics & Beyond New Series, 229] 2013. xiii, 285 pp.

© John Benjamins Publishing Company

This electronic file may not be altered in any way. For any reuse of this material, beyond the permissions granted by the Open Access license, written permission should be obtained from the publishers or through the Copyright Clearance Center (for USA: www.copyright.com).

For further information, please contact rights@benjamins.nl or consult our website at benjamins.com/rights

Acknowledgements

This book could not have been written without contributions of various kinds from many people. First and foremost, I would like to thank my supervisor Wolfram Bublitz for supporting me and my work from the beginning to the end. It was his personal and professional guidance that made me believe in the success of this thesis. I am no less indebted to my second supervisor Dieter Götz for contributing fruitful perspectives and helpful comments. I am very thankful for his kind and flexible assistance in this project.

I am also deeply grateful to my dear colleagues and friends Christian Hoffmann, Volker Eisenlauer and Monika Kirner, who took the time to discuss and read through numerous drafts of chapters and who gave me valuable help in shaping and arranging my thoughts. On a related note, I would also like to express my thanks to all the other members of the doctoral colloquium Olena Vorontsova, Iris Zimmermann, Elisabeth Fritz – and again to Wolfram Bublitz for his hospitality – as well as Anne Troeltsch and Siaohui Kok, all of whom detected typos, grammatical flaws and logical inconsistencies diligently.

Further, my thanks go to the kind souls in the secretary's offices, especially to Monika Martens, Gudrun Nelle and Inge Christopher, who generously and constantly provided moral support, encouragement and the most delicious chocolate. I would also like to thank our student assistants and Johannes Bleimeir in particular, who has been a great help in compiling the message board corpus and in drawing up descriptive charts.

Most importantly, though, I would like to express my gratitude to my whole family, my parents Karin and Jürgen Arendholz and my grandparents Vera and Richard Arendholz, for their unwavering and unconditional moral and financial support. Finally, I would also like to thank my husband Frank, who has been a constant source of inspiration and calmness and who secured my mental and physical wellbeing with heartfelt encouragement and good food.

Needless to say, none of the above is in any way to blame for any remaining flaws or inadequacies, as I remain responsible for them.

Jenny Arendholz
Augsburg, August 2012