This volume is inspired by the pre-conference workshop Register Approaches to Language Variation and Change in English(es), held at the ICAME 40 conference (University of Neuchâtel, 1–5 June 2019). Both the workshop and the volume were possible due to the help of a great many people. Beginning with the workshop itself, we are grateful to all the participants for their inspiring and stimulating presentations on register variation: Edward Finegan and Benjamin Lee (University of Southern California), Stefania Degaetano-Ortlieb (University of Saarland), Claudia Lange (University of Dresden), Paula Rodríguez-Puente (University of Oviedo), Tove Larsson and Magali Paquot (University of Louvain), Randi Reppen (Northern Arizona University), Stella Neumann and Stefan Evert (University of Aachen), Javier Pérez-Guerra (University of Vigo), Alexandra Engel, Benedikt Szmrecsanyi, Freek Van de Velde and Jason Graffmiller (University of Leuven), and Doug Biber, Jesse Egbert and Daniel Keller (Northern Arizona University). We are also grateful to the audience for their input during the workshop.

The current volume includes a selection of the workshop presentations and also some additional chapters by authors working on register variation, namely Yolande Botha and Maryka van Zyl, Turo Hiltunen, Melanie Röthlisberger, and Valentin Werner. The volume would not have been possible without the excellent work and cooperation of all the authors: it has been a pleasure working with you all, and we look forward to further cooperation in the future. We are also greatly indebted to the following colleagues who acted as anonymous external peer reviewers and provided generous feedback: Shlomo Argamon, Tony Berber Sardinha, Lise Fontaine, Bethany Gray, Ulrike Gut, Anu Lehto, Minna Nevala, Bety Ramsaj, Randi Reppen, Shelley Staples and Freek Van de Velde.

Our gratitude is also due to Ute Römer, the series editor, for her commitment to this project and her constant help and valuable feedback, as well as to all the editorial staff at John Benjamins, especially Kees Vaes. Thank you all for making the project such an enjoyable and positive experience.

For generous financial support, we would like to express our gratitude to the Spanish Ministry of Economy and Competitiveness (grant FFI2014-53930-P) and the Regional Government of Galicia (grant ED431C 2017/50).
