We are indebted to the Communauté française de Belgique for funding the concerted action research project on 'Foreign Language Learning: Phraseology and Discourse' (N° 03/08–301) within the framework of which this volume and the conference that gave rise to it have been produced. We would also like to thank all the contributors to this volume for their diligence in keeping to deadlines and patience in complying with our editorial demands. We are indebted to the many reviewers who provided insightful comments on preliminary versions of the chapters, thereby improving the overall quality of the volume. Special thanks are due to Stéphanie Delier for her help in formatting the chapters and keeping track of the many versions of the files. Finally, we would like to express our gratitude to Kees Vaes at Benjamins for his trust, support and patience.
