

Contents

Acknowledgments, xii

Chapter One Postmodernity, Not Learning and the Not So Common Sense, 1

A First Puzzle: The Failure to Learn, 3

The Crisis of Postmodernity, 3

Appalachian Reform, Chad Health Aid, and University Instruction, 6

Theoretical Underpinnings of the Puzzle, 9

The Liberal Institutional Perspective, 9

The Sociological Alternative, 12

An Inadequate Conception of Learning, 16

Social and Psychological Reductionism, 17

A Second Puzzle: Noncommon Meaning, 19

Implications for Theory and Empirical Research, 29

Conclusion, 30

Chapter Two A Structural Pragmatic Social Psychology, 33

The Structural Pragmatic Approach, 33

The Pragmatist Dimension, 34

The Structuralist Dimension, 39

A Pragmatic Structuralism, 43

Structures, Structuration, and History, 47

Duality of Structuration, 51

The Transformation of Structures:

The Social Psychology of Development, 56

Types of Thinking: A Preliminary Overview, 71

Sequential Thinking, 71

Linear Thinking, 73

Systematic Thinking, 75

Chapter Three Linear Thinking, 79

The Mode of Reasoning and the General Structure of Thought, 80

The Structure of Thought: Unidirectional and Anchored, 82

Social Reasoning, 93

Focus on Action, Efficacy, and Role, 94

Individuals: Person as Actor, Social Identity, and Self-Concept, 96

Groups as Actors, 100

Social Rules and Conventions, 104

The Linear Conception of Politics: A Scripted Play, 107

Linear Evaluation: Liking and Wanting, 118

The Primary Creation of Value, 119

The Secondary Creation of Value: Cognitive Balance,

Prejudice, and Cultural Standards, 120

Value Application, 127

Value Conflict and Resolution, 129

Summary, 131

Chapter Four Systematic Thinking, 134

The Mode and Structure of Systematic Thought, 135

The Underlying Structure of Thought: Systems and Principles, 139

The Nature of Social Reasoning, 153

Systemic Contexts: The Individual and the Community, 155

Systemic Construction of Social Life: Limits and Confusions, 162

Principles of Social Relationship, 167

Political Reasoning, 172

Political System, 172

Principles of Political Interaction, 189

Conclusion, 200

Systematic Evaluation: Function and Principle, 202

Processes of Evaluation: Systemic and Principled, 203

Three Levels of Value: The Desirable, the Good, and the Ideal, 207

Chapter Five Sequential Thinking, 217

Mode of Reasoning and the General Structure of Thought, 220

Synthesis Without Analysis, 221

Temporality, Immediacy, and Mutability, 225

Conceptual Units, 226

Social Reasoning, 229

Temporal and Spatial Parameters, 229

Social Action, 232

The Concept of Persons: Embedded and Fragmentary, 235

Routines Rather Than Rules, 238

Political Reasoning or Staring at the Night Sky, 240

The Nature of Evaluation: Feeling and Needing, 243

Evaluative Relations, 243

Evaluative Units, 245

Egocentrism and Social Influence, 247

Conclusion, 250

Chapter Six Epistemology, Methodology, and Research Design, 252

Epistemological Assumptions and Methodological Orientation, 253

Liberal Social Scientific Inquiry, 253

The Structural Pragmatic Approach, 260

Subject Population Studied, 262

Method of Gathering Data, 263

Objectives and Administration of the Interview, 266

Methodological Concerns, 266

The Political Belief Systems Interview, 267

Personal Issue: Evaluating Another Person and Breaking the Law to Help a Friend, 268

Domestic Political Issue: The Controversial Display of Homoerotic Art, 273

Foreign Relations Issue: American Involvement in Bosnia-Herzegovina, 278

Concluding Comments, 283

Analysis of the Open-Ended Interview Data, 285

Chapter Seven Results of the Empirical Research: Julie, Barbara, and Bill, 294

Summary Statement of Results, 294

Sample Interviews: Julie, Barbara, and Bill, 296

Three Evaluations of a Personal Issue, 297

Julie's Linear Evaluation, 297

Barbara's Systematic Evaluation, 309

Bill's Sequential Evaluation, 324

Three Evaluations of a Domestic Political Issue, 332

Julie's Linear Evaluation, 332

Barbara's Systematic Evaluation, 346

Bill's Sequential Evaluation, 360

Concluding Comment, 368

Chapter Eight Overview and Concluding Remarks, 370

The Empirical Research: Related Work and Common Criticism, 374

Earlier Research, 374

Related Research on Political, Social, and Moral Reasoning, 376

Schemas vs. Structures, 380

Addressing Criticism of the Empirical Research, 382

Tolerance, Deliberation, and Democratic Theory:

Directions for Future Research, 387

Notes, 397

Bibliography, 411

Index, 421

