

Ezra Greenleaf Weld, Fugitive Slave Law Convention,
Cazenovia, New York. Daguerreotype, 2.1" × 2.6", 22 August 1850.
Frederick Douglass is seated at the left end of the table.
Courtesy of the Madison County Historical Society, Oneida, N.Y.

 "Expulsion of Negroes and Abolitionists from Tremont Temple, Boston, Massachusetts, on December 3, 186o." Harper's Weekly, 15 December 1860, 788. Courtesy of the Library of Congress, LC-USZ62-11267o.

3. Thomas Ball, Freedmen's Memorial Monument to Abraham Lincoln. Bronze, 1876. Lincoln Park, Washington, D.C. In a controversial speech at the monument's unveiling, Douglass questioned the symbolism of the kneeling position of the slave before Lincoln. Courtesy of the Library of Congress, Manuscript Division.

4. Frederick Douglass speaking at the Tuskegee Institute, 26 March 1892. Courtesy of the Library of Congress, LC-USZ62–120533.

