

Content

Introduction

Making and Hacking

Annika Richterich and Karin Wenz 5

I Case Studies and Methodological Reflections

Genealogy, Culture and Technomyth

Decolonizing Western Information Technologies, from Open Source to the Maker Movement

Kat Braybrooke and Tim Jordan 25

Experimenting with Novel Socio-Technical Configurations

The Domestication of Digital Fabrication Technologies in FabLabs

Sabine Hielscher 47

Reading Makers

Locating Criticality in DIY and “Maker” Approaches

Minka Stoyanova 73

Hacking Together Globally

An Analysis of the Norms Surrounding Technology

Jeremy Hunsinger 95

“Just Do It!”

Considerations on the Acquisition of Hackerspace Field Skills
as an Ethnomethodological Research Technique

Sebastian Dahm 109

II Entering the Field

Making with China

Craft-Based Participatory Research Methods for Investigating
Shenzhen’s Maker Movement

Justin Marshall and Catharine Rossi 127

Urban Hacking and Its “Media Origins”

Angela Krewani 139

Making Sense of Sensors

Kate O’Riordan, Jennifer Parker, David Harris and Emile Devereaux 147

III In Conversation with ...

Identity Crisis in the Pearl River Delta

A Conversation with a Hong Kong Hackerspace Community
Michelle Poon and Wilhelm E.J. Klein 159

“There Simply Is No Unified Hacker Movement.” Why We Should Consider the Plurality of Hacker and Maker Cultures

Sebastian Kubitschko in Conversation with Annika Richterich and Karin Wenz 185

Biographical Notes 197