

Contents

Acknowledgments | ix

Introduction | 3

Shelley Boyd and Dorothy Barenscoot

Part One

Indigeneity and Foodways: Stories from Home and Abroad | 29

1 Foodland Security: Access to Country Food by Inuit in an Urban Setting | 31

Barry Pottle

2 What Can We Learn from Dining with Bears? Indigenous Stories,
Worldviews, and the Environment | 37

Margery Fee

3 Changing Tides: Indigenous Chefs at the Culinary Olympics and the
Gastronomic Professionalization of Aboriginal Cooking | 57

Sebastian Schellhaas

4 Terra Nullius on the Plate: Colonial Blindness, Restaurant Discourse, and Indigenous Cuisines | 77

Zoe Tennant

5 From Meat to Metaphor: Beavers and Conflicting Imaginations
of the Edible | 93

L. Sasha Gora

Part Two

(Sub)Urban/Rural Imaginations: Producing and Representing Foodscapes | 115

6 Montreal in the Culinary Imagination | 117

Nathalie Cooke

7 Creating Contemporary Canadian Agri-Art: Learning from Practice,
Responding to Place, Working with Immateriality | 146

Sylvia Grace Borda

8 Food, Place, and Power in Timothy Taylor's Stanley Park | 162

Wendy Roy

9 PLOT: An Interview with Cora and Don Li-Leger (The People's Food
Security Bureau) | 183

Cora and Don Li-Leger (interviewed by Dorothy Barenscott)

10 A Case Study on Ghost River Theatre's Food Performance | 200

Angela Ferreira

Part Three

Culinary Lineages: Collective and Personal Reflections | 211

11 Chewed a Book Lately? Douglas Coupland's Souvenir of Canada
Coffee-Table Books | 213

Shelley Boyd

12 Phototextual Remembering in Janice Wong's Chow: From China to Canada:
Memories of Food + Family | 241

Glenn Deer

13 The Royal Cafe Experience | 263

Elyse Bouvier

14	Writing beyond “Currybooks”: Construction of Racialized and Gendered Diasporic Identities in Anita Rau Badami’s Can You Hear the Nightbird Call? 277 Asma Sayed
15	Playing with Food 295 Jason Wright
Part Four
	Subverting Categories: Critical-Creative Re-interpretations of Food 309
16	Breaking Bread: Queer Foodways and the Non-human 311 Jes Battis
17	A Taste for the Object: Food in the Relational Artworks of Sandee Moore 333 Sandee Moore
18	“Viciousness in the Kitchen”: Women and Food in Alice Munro’s Fiction and Mary Pratt’s Visual Art 348 Heidi Tiedemann Darroch
19	Table of Contents: Reading, Cooking, Eating Canadian Literature 364 Alexia Moyer
20	A MEAT /MEETING in the Park: Ursula Johnson’s (re)al-location and The Festival of Stewards 376 David Diviney and Melinda Spooner (in conversation with Ursula Johnson)
	Figures 391
	Contributors 397
	Index 403