

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
List of Abbreviations	xv
Chronology	xvii

Introduction: Peoples, Plants, and Patents in South Africa 3

1	Colonial Science and Hoodia as a Scientific Object	29
2	San Demands for Benefits by Knowing !Khoba as a Plant from Nature	47
3	South African Scientists and the Patenting of Hoodia as a Molecule	67
4	Botanical Drug Discovery of Hoodia, from Solid Drug to Liquid Food	87
5	Hoodia Growers and the Making of Hoodia as a Cultivated Plant	103

Epilogue: Implications of a Feminist Decolonial Technoscience 127

Appendix 1: Community Protocols and Research Guidelines for Working with Indigenous Peoples	133
Appendix 2: Strategies for Patent Litigation	135
Notes	137
Bibliography	179
Index	197

