

Contents

Introduction	1
1. Latin and How Languages Develop	11
A very brief introduction to Latin grammar	16
A short history	20
Manchu: the language of a lost empire	36
2. Khoisan – The Languages with Many Sounds	45
Khoikhoi	46
A history of Khoikhoi	49
Language activism	58
3. Lost and Reclaimed	63
The death of a language	67
The endangered languages of India	70
The Leco language of Bolivia	73
The decline of Penan	76
The Ainu language of Japan	78
The rarest language in Europe	82
The language of Jesus	89
Language reclamation: decolonizing the language of extinction	92
4. Languages and Ecosystems: An Environmentalist Vocabulary	97
Hawaiian	100
The Nuxálk language	106

The ecological significance of Sámi	110
Languages of medicine	112
African indigenous knowledge systems	115
5. Plains Sign Talk – The Sound of Silence	119
The development of Plains Sign Talk	120
PST today	132
Signalling	135
6. Whistled Languages	139
The phonetics of whistling	142
El Silbo of Gomera	144
Hmong: the language of courtship	148
The bird language of Turkey	149
The whistling of lullabies	155
The forests are full of whistling	157
What can we learn from the whistled languages?	158
7. Rare Tongues in Europe: Sicilian, Corsican, Catalan, and Monégasque	163
Sicilian	164
Corsican	183
Catalan	187
The language and the prince	195
8. Language in Conflict	203
Basque and Bertsolaritza	205
The declaration of a common language	209
Sri Lankan language wars	212
The Tajikistan language conflict	217
9. Language Revival	223
Hebrew: creating a new language for a modern world	224
The language of the Māori people of New Zealand	233

10. Dare to Speak Your Language: Guarani and Gaelic	239
Guarani	240
Scottish Gaelic	246
Conclusion	265
Appendix: A Note on Some Linguistic Terms and the Idea of Linguistic Universality	273
Phonetics	274
Phonology	278
Syntax	280
Semantics and pragmatics	283
Historical Linguistics	286
Ecolinguistics	288
Sociolinguistics	291
Language universals	292
Select Bibliography	297
Acknowledgements	311
Notes	315
Index	329

