THE EDINBURGH HISTORY OF THE BOOK IN SCOTLAND

General Editor: Bill Bell
University of Edinburgh

WHETHER in the creation of early manuscripts, in the formation of libraries, through fine printing, or the development of mass media, Scotland's contributions to the history of the book, both within the nation and beyond its boundaries, have been remarkable. Published in four volumes, The Edinburgh History of the Book in Scotland brings together the work of leading scholars in the field in order to investigate the history of the Scottish book from earliest times to the present.

Volume 1: From the Earliest Times to 1707

Editors: Alastair Mann and Sally Mapstone

Volume 2: Enlightenment and Expansion 1707–1800

Editors: Stephen W. Brown and Warren McDougall

Volume 3: Ambition and Industry 1800–1880

Editor: Bill Bell

Volume 4: Professionalism and Diversity

Editors: David Finkelstein and Alistair McCleery
