Acknowledgements

Like all books, this collection is a 'group work', which has emerged from a virtual state of existence into formal actuality only through the efforts of the many people who have been involved in the process of its becoming. We are grateful for the assistance given by the editorial team at EUP, and especially wish to thank Carol MacDonald and Ian Buchanan for their advice and support. Christopher Miller, Rev Chow, Dipesh Chakrabarty, Peter Hallward, Françoise Lionnet and Bill Ashcroft provided us with valuable early suggestions about potential contributors with an interest in the connections between Deleuze and postcolonialism. Our sincere thanks are due to Paul Gibbard for his expert translation of the chapter by Réda Bensmaïa. We are indebted to Nabile Farès for kindly allowing us to reprint pages of illustrative text from his book L'État perdu (1982), published by Actes Sud. Princeton University Press gave us kind permission to include material previously published in Réda Bensmaïa's book Experimental Nations (2003). The Thomas Fisher Rare Book library at the University of Toronto and the Canadian Centre for Architecture in Montreal generously authorised the reproduction of archived images of early fire escapes. Simone would especially like to thank Greg Dayman for his care and support. Paul would like to thank Moira Gatens, as always, for her advice and support. Finally, we wish to thank each of the contributors for making the shared journey so enjoyable and illuminating.
