

Contents

Illustrations	vi
Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction: Jet Li and transnational kung fu stardom	1
Part I Jet Li as Chinese wuxia hero
1 Jet Li and the new wuxia cinema in the 1990s	33
2 Kung fu master: martial arts and acting in Once Upon a Time in China (1991)	47
3 Gay lover? Gender trouble and male identification in Swordsman II (1992)	65
4 Mother's boy: adolescent hero and male masquerade in Fong Sai-yuk (1993)	83
Part II Jet Li as transnational kung fu star
5 Villain/killer/child: crossover images and Orientalist imagination	105
6 Asexual Romeo? Male sexuality and cultural perspectives	127
7 National hero/spectacular body: national and transnational identities	146
8 Borderless icon: star construction and Internet fandom	167
Conclusion	185
Bibliography	192
Index	210