ILLUSTRATIONS

Encoding 'Japaneseness'.	8
The classical imaginary: between realism and melodrama.	29
Stylised violence in Zatoichi.	32
Liminality and intertextuality: at the beach in Chinpira.	46
The voracious, libidinal mouth in Ichi the Killer .	53
Verticality in Ichi the Killer .	54
Kitano's use of scope photography in Outrage.	60
Signifiers as signifieds: problematic signs in Ring.	73
Images of a blast specific to Nakata's film of Ring.	74
Giving birth to Kayako and monstrous femininity in Ju-on: The
Grudge 2.	83
The freeze frame that ends Nobody Knows and that recalls The
400 Blows.	103
The still centre of a storm of movement.	109
The postmodern city (and family): 'reality' and reproduction in
The Hanging Garden.	115
Excessive female ejaculation in Warm Water under the Red
Bridge.	127
Distance and self-reflexivity in Fence.	162
Parodying the male gaze in Don't Laugh at my Romance.	183
Envisioning touristic spectacle at the beginning and end of I Have
to Buy New Shoes.	195
	The classical imaginary: between realism and melodrama. Stylised violence in Zatoichi . Liminality and intertextuality: at the beach in Chinpira . The voracious, libidinal mouth in Ichi the Killer . Verticality in Ichi the Killer . Kitano's use of scope photography in Outrage . Signifiers as signifieds: problematic signs in Ring . Images of a blast specific to Nakata's film of Ring . Giving birth to Kayako and monstrous femininity in Ju-on: The Grudge 2 . The freeze frame that ends Nobody Knows and that recalls The 400 Blows . The still centre of a storm of movement. The postmodern city (and family): 'reality' and reproduction in The Hanging Garden . Excessive female ejaculation in Warm Water under the Red Bridge . Distance and self-reflexivity in Fence . Parodying the male gaze in Don't Laugh at my Romance . Envisioning touristic spectacle at the beginning and end of I Have

7.3	The saturated mise-en-scène of Sakuran comments on the commodification of its women.	198
7.4	Protesting the look in Helter Skelter .	200