

Index

A

access-to-information, 2, 39, 64–71, 73, 132–133 Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS), 63–64 algorithms, 71, 186, 187 Antarctic Treaty, 30
anticircumvention law, 95–96
application programming interface (API), 88 Arthur, Charles, 32
artificial intelligence (AI), 3, 7, 60, 186, 207, 232 automated data scraping, 88–90 automated intelligent programs (bots): attempts to work with platform companies, 90–91; development of well-behaving, 97; harm done to website servers by, 96–97; how they scrape data, 88–89; legal restrictions on, 91–96; technology designed to stop, 87, 89–90; third party need of to access data, 87

B

Bernard, Paul, 36
big data analytics: as challenge to open data, 3; changing nature of, 6; and cross-organization sharing, 28–29; gender bias of, 193; importance of private sector to, 190; issues concerning in Global South, 183–191, 194; and need for capacity building, 191–192; and sustainable development goals, 192–193; and third-party proprietary data, 72–73

biometrics, 187, 194

book clubs, 58, 207

bots. see automated intelligent programs (bots) broadband Internet, 206–207

Budapest Open Access Initiative, 32

C

Canada, Government of:
commitment to open data, 2, 4–5, 40–41, 146; commitment to open government, 58, 163; and data sharing, 38; and license agreements for open data, 142; and Open Data for Results, 26; and provisions for confidential information, 66–67; and Smart Cities Challenge, 42–43

Canada GIS, 175

Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (CISTI), 35

Canada Open Government Working Group (COGWG), 5

Canadian Geospatial Data Infrastructure, 24, 37

Canadian municipalities: and duty of care, 139–140; and encouraging innovation with open data, 162; and G4 cities, 163; and geospatial open data, 13; and hackathons, 161–162; history of open data in, 2, 11, 12, 41; and licence agreements, 142; and Smart Cities Challenge, 41–42, 44; and smart technologies, 6–7. see also Edmonton, City of; G4 open data study; Toronto, City of

Canadian Open Data Exchange, 107 capacity building, 31, 183, 190, 207, 210

Citizen Dashboard, 213

class-action lawsuits, 144

Code for Canada, 234 commercially sensitive information, 59, 60, 65–71 confidential information: excluded from release to public, 59, 60; how it has been dealt with in case law, 68–72, 74; how release of commercial information compares to release of personal information, 67–68, 70, 73; provisions for in government institutions, 65–67; public interest in protecting, 63–64 copyright law, 61–62, 72, 91–96

COVID-19 pandemic, 27, 206, 232–235

Craigslist, 92–93, 95

crawlers, 92

Cross, Michael, 32

crowdsourced data, 181, 212

cyber-security risks, 131

D

data, conceptualization of, 24

data governance, 42, 44, 106, 180, 189, 196

Data Liberation Initiative (DLI), 36 data licensing: as challenge to open data, 3, 7; by government, 61, 142–143; and trans-jurisdictionality, 214 data portability, 195

data revolution, 180, 194

data scraping: described, 80; legal barriers to, 83–84, 91–96; methods of, 88–89; need of regulation for, 91; platform companies attempts to block, 87–88; plea for legal intervention for, 96–98; technological barriers to, 88–91; and third-party users working with platform companies, 90–91 data sharing: and Antarctic Treaty, 30; history in Canada, 37–39, 44–45; history of, 31; how it works, 29–30; and UN Earth Summit, 32–33 data sovereignty: concerns about, 7–8; in Global South, 194; and Indigenous communities, 8, 24, 28, 33, 232; research on, 194–195 data trusts, 196, 230–231 data-enclosure movement, 12, 42 data-localization, 7

data-purchasing consortia, 36

digitization, 147, 205–206

Directive on Open Government, 66, 146 disclaimers and liability, 28, 133, 136

distantiation, 215

Dool, Tom, 209–210, 216

duty of care, 140, 143, 145

E

Earth observation (EO) community, 28

Eaves, David, 39

Edmonton, City of, 129n3, 129n4, 162, 167, 172, 173, 213

e-governance, 160

embedded innovation, 215 ethnic minorities, 189, 194, 232–233

F

Facebook: data policy of, 82; as major platform, 81, 91; as part of Web 2.0, 28; policy on third-party data use, 80, 92

First Nations. see Indigenous communities flawed data, 190, 191

G

G4 open data study: analysis of Toronto GIS-ready data, 165–166; assessment of city plans, 171–172; cities included in, 163; comparison of file formats and themes in, 167–169; conclusions of, 174–175; file formats included in, 164–165; limitations of, 173–174; open data catalogues of, 164; recommendations for City of Toronto plan, 172–173; results for City of Toronto data, 169–170

G4+1, 38, 39

gender inclusivity, 183, 185–186, 191, 193

gender-based analysis (GBA+), 41

General Transit Feed Specification (GTFS), 116, 165 geographic information system (GIS) software: analysis of in Toronto open data study, 165–166; described, 161; recommendations for in G4 open data study, 172–173; in rural areas, 210; tracked in G4 open data study, 168–170

Geomatics Accord, 23–24

Geophysical Service Incorporated v. Encana Corporation, 71–72 geospatial community, 38–39, 45 geospatial open data: as foundational for open data in Canada, 58; future of, 13; and Indigenous peoples, 175; and rural areas, 202; tracked in G4 study, 168–170, 172; use of by private sector, 109; what's needed to access, 160–161

Geothink, 2

geoweb, 2

GIS. see geographic information system (GIS) software

Global Open Data for Agriculture and Nutrition (GODAN), 26

Global Open Data Index (GODI), 22–23, 80

Global Positioning System (GPS), 32

Global South: and big data analytics, 183–191, 194; privacy challenges in, 182, 186–189, 191, 194; recommended research for, 192, 195–196; concerns for open data in, 182–183, 190–191

Google, 42, 87, 97

Google Maps, 28, 38

GTFS (General Transit Feed Specification), 116, 165

H

hackathons, 3, 58, 140, 161–162, 207, 210, 219, 234 hiQ Labs v. LinkedIn (2017), 82–83, 84, 96 horizontal integration, 216 human behavioural data, 231 human rights, 188, 194, 195

I

identifiability, 60, 67

Indigenous communities: and concerns over data sovereignty, 8, 232; and geospatial open data, 175; and inequities of open data for, 233; and trans-jurisdictionality, 216–217; and UN Earth Summit, 31 information communication technologies (ICTs), 193, 206, 215 innovation, 162, 169–170, 207, 215 intellectual property rights, 61, 62, 63–64, 131

Internet of Things (IoT), 32, 35, 211

IoT systems, 35

K

Keatley Surveying Ltd. v. Teranet, 72, 74

L

legal frameworks, 187–190

Legault, Suzanne, 39 liability: described, 10, 133; and enactment of open data statutes, 145–150; and future of open data, 12; government concern of, 60, 131–132; government strategies for mitigating, 133, 141–143; and negligence, 137–141; as part of open data planning, 127; suggested measures to limit, 134–135; and tort system, 136–137; used by advocates to increase open data, 143–145; ways open data can raise issues of, 95, 133–134 licence agreements, 142–143

lidar, 211, 212

linked open data, 114–115, 118

LinkedIn, 82–83, 84, 91, 96

M

Mackenzie Data Stream, 212–213

manual data scraping, 88

Merton, Robert K., 29

minority/ethnic communities, 189, 194, 232–233 mobile-communications data, 188, 193 municipalities. see Canadian municipalities; Edmonton, City of; Toronto, City of negligence, 137–141, 143–145

N

O

OCAP. see ownership, control, access and possession

ODB. see Open Data Barometer online user agreements, 92

Ontario, Government of, 2, 5, 66, 72, 128 open by default principle, 25, 31, 44, 66, 73, 113, 174, 231 open data: accuracy of, 113; beginning of as concept, 33–34; benefits to private sector,

- 109–111; challenges for private sector, 105–106; challenges in accessing, 3, 111–114, 129–130, 160–161; changing role of government as custodian of, 118; and changing value of data, 6–8; costs to government, 132–133; COVID-19 challenges to, 25, 233–235; defined, 1–2, 21–27, 147, 181; dominated by urban concerns, 202; economic benefits from, 8, 161–162; evolution of, 34–35; fear of litigation as reason for going slow on, 141, 142; government benefits from, 126, 132, 161, 162; governments committed to, 1, 2, 4–5, 40–41, 58, 146; harm done by tailoring for private sector, 118–119; history of in Canada, 39–42, 44–45; impermanence of, 119; improvements government can make to, 114–117; inequities of, 24–27; and innovation, 162, 169–170; lack of research into, 104, 105; limits on, 60; poor quality of, 36, 130; racialized nature of, 25–27, 189, 194, 232–233; research into, 104, 105, 106–107, 181–182; serving the public good, 233–234; slowness of implementation, 126–127, 130–131; in smart city initiatives, 6–7, 41–43, 230–232; special concerns for in Global South, 182–183, 190–191; standardization of, 116–117, 118; statutes, 127, 135, 145–150; study of Toronto private sector users of, 107–114; support for, 128–129; and sustainable development goals, 192–193; thought of as assemblage, 21–22; timeliness of, 113–114; views on file formats, 162; weaknesses of in Canada, 44; what it consists of, 1–2, 160
- Open Data Barometer (ODB), 32–33, 165
- open data catalogues, 118, 160
- Open Data Charter, 1, 25–27, 32
- open data ecosystem, 114–117, 118
- Open Data for Development, 181–183
- Open Data for Results, 28
- Open Data Index, 32
- Open Data Initiative, 182
- Open Data Institute (ODI), 32, 234
- open data sets/portals: as an assemblage, 23; evolution of, 58–59; foundational, 34; fragmentation of, 5; most valuable to private sector, 110–111; in rural areas, 212–213; varying quality of, 5–6
- open data statutes, 127, 135, 145–150
- Open Government Declaration, 1
- Open Government Licence, 2, 58, 61
- open government movement, 1–2
- Open Government Partnership (OGP), 1, 25, 32, 39, 58, 181
- Open Knowledge Foundation, 22, 217
- Open North, 26, 38, 39, 42, 232
- Open Smart Cities Definitions, 35, 38
- open washing, 183
- open wishing, 183

OpenStreetMap, 28, 38, 109, 175
 Ottawa, City of, 26, 27, 129, 167 ownership, control, access and possession (OCAP), 25, 31, 232

P

PIPEDA (Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act), 83–84

platform companies: control of user-generated content, 80, 90–92, 96–97; and controlling data for profit, 80, 84–85; examples of policy on use of content, 82; legal barriers used to block data scraping, 91–96; and legal ramifications of reuse of public data, 14; need for restrictions on their power, 87, 91, 96–98; services performed by, 81–82; third-party users working with, 90–91; use of technology to block bots, 87–88, 89–90. see also private sector

PORTAGE, 43

privacy laws/rights: challenges for in Global South, 182, 186–189, 191, 194; and data scraping, 83–84; effect of changing public and private-sector roles in, 190;
 and liability of open data, 131; and limit on open data, 60; and need for capacity building, 191–192; and private ownership of data, 231; and tools for anonymizing data, 67, 73–74; use of in confidential information cases, 73; and using big data for sustainable development goals, 193

private sector: benefits of open data for, 109–111; challenges in accessing open data, 111–114;
 challenges in using open data, 105–106; and human behavioural data, 231; improvements government can make to open data for, 114–117; and ownership of public data, 13–14, 59, 231; as repackager of government data, 118; and research into open data, 104, 105–107; and rural open data, 206, 208; and sourcing big data in Global South, 184, 190, 193; study of Toronto users of open data, 107–114; suggestions from to improve open data, 117–118. see also platform
 companies

procurement agreements, 41–42 provincial governments, 2, 58. see also Ontario, Government of public authority liability, 137–141 public choice theory, 136 public user data: legal restrictions on, 83; need for government regulation of, 80–81, 85; need for legal intervention to preserve, 96–98; and need of automated data scraping, 88; and platform company profit, 84–85; uses of, 82–83

public-private partnerships, 3, 7

R

racialized people, 189, 194, 232–233

Rankin, Murray, 36

real-time data, 6, 11, 34, 42, 44

regional governance structure, 219–220

research: into open data, 104, 105, 106–107, 181–182; recommended for Global South, 192, 195–196 reverse engineering, 71 robots exclusion protocol (REP), 90–91 rural areas: access to open data in, 202–203; defined, 203–204; and future of open data, 12–13; mix of data in, 210–213; motivations for open data, 208–210; recommendations for open data in, 217–220; restructuring of, 204–205; and technical capacity problems, 205–208; and tools for open data, 219–220; and trans-jurisdictional data, 213–217; types of portals, 212–213; and users of open data, 207, 219

S

satellite imagery, 211, 220

Scientific Committee on Antarctic Research (SCAR), 30

semantic web, 115

Sidewalk Labs, 42, 230–231

Smart Cities Challenge, 42–44, 230–232 smart city initiatives: in Canada, 41–43; hope for future of, 45–46; implications of third-party proprietary data on, 62–63, 72–73; Open Smart City Definition, 35, 38; uncertain nature of open data in, 41–43, 230–232 social media data, 184, 186 statutory framework, 12, 128, 135, 145, 147–150

Sunlight Foundation, 32, 34 sustainable development goals (SDGs), 184, 190, 192–193

T

technological protection measures (TPMs), 89–90, 95–96 techno-solutionism, 194 telephone networks, 86

third-party data users: blocked from data by platform companies, 80; and evolution of Internet, 87; future of, 14; legal restrictions on, 83, 91–96; methods of acquiring data, 80; methods of data scraping, 88; need of government protection for, 85; platform companies control of, 84–85; technological barriers to, 89–90; and working with platform companies, 90–91

third-party proprietary data: acceptance of by government and industry, 62; excluded from release to public, 59, 60; implications for AI and smart city datasets, 62–63, 72–73; and proving its originality in court, 61–62

Toronto, City of, 5, 129n3, 165–166, 169–170, 172–173 tort system, 136–137

TPMs (technological protection measures), 89–90, 95–96 trade secrets, 63–64, 65–67 trans-jurisdictionality, 213–217

Tri-Agency, 29, 32

TRIPS (Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights), 63–64

U

UN Earth Summit, 30–31

user-generated content: in analysis of Toronto open data, 166;

control of by platform

companies, 80, 81–82, 84, 92–93,

96, 98; described, 81;

privatizing of, 84–85, 97;

ways platform companies

block, 87–91

W

Waterfront Toronto, 230–231

Web 2.0 evolution, 160

women, 218. see also gender inclusivity