

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Chapter 1. Dewey and May Fourth China	1
Enacting a Historical Drama	1
Rethinking Dewey's Visit in China	5
The Encounter between Dewey and China: Then and Now	8
Overview of Upcoming Chapters	9
Chapter 2. Dewey as a Teacher	13
Dewey as a Modern Confucius	14
Dewey as "Mr. Science"	15
Dewey as "Mr. Democracy"	16
Dewey as the Common People's Educator	20
Dewey as a Democratic Teacher	22
Whose Teaching? Or Hu's Teaching?	30
Chapter 3. The Reception of Dewey in China	41
The Dewey Fad	42
Marxist Challenges to Dewey's Social and Political Philosophy	46
Traditionalist Responses to Dewey's Educational Philosophy	53
Reconsidering "The Dewey Experiment"	62
Chapter 4. Dewey as a Learner	65
Dewey as a Political Commentator	66
Dewey as a Goodwill Ambassador	70
Dewey as a Cultural Anthropologist	74
A Fruitful Journey to the East	83
Chapter 5. The Influence of China on Dewey's Social and Political Philosophy	87
Rethinking Internationalism	87
Replacing the State with the Public	93
Reconstructing Democracy	102
Mapping Out a Future for Confucian Democracy	115

Chapter 6. Continuing the Dialogue on Dewey and China	121
Notes	125
Bibliography	141
Index	149