
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments xi

- 1 MOBY-DICK AND THE AMERICAN CANON 1
 - Posthumanist Theory and Canon Formation 2
 - A Genealogical History of the Reception of Moby-Dick, 1850–1945 12
 - The New Americanist “Field-Imaginary” and the Vietnam War 23
 - The New Americanists and Moby-Dick 31
 - The Limits of the New Americanist Discourse 36
- 2 METAPHYSICS AND SPATIAL FORM: MELVILLE’S CRITIQUE OF SPECULATIVE PHILOSOPHY AND FICTION 43
 - Tragic Vision and Metaphysics 47
 - Tragic Vision and Moby-Dick 54
 - Melville’s Errant Measure: The Testimony of the Fiction Following Moby-Dick 61
- 3 THE ERRANT ART OF MOBY-DICK 75
 - The Question of Ishmael’s Name 75
 - Ishmael’s Reading of Father Mapple’s Reading of the Jonah Text 87
 - The Centered Circle, the Imperial Gaze, and Abasement 114
 - The American Adam and the Naming of the White Whale 121
 - Ishmael and the Unnaming of Moby Dick 127
 - Ishmael, Theory, and Practice 131

The Self as Orphan	148
Ishmael and Negative Capability	156
Representation and Errancy: The Art of Narration	166
Cetology and Discipline	185
Political Economy in Moby-Dick : Toward a Counterhegemony	204
Repetition and the Indissoluble Continuum of Being: Melville's Polis	226
Moby-Dick as Diabolic Book	232
The Question of Ishmael's Name: A Repetition	245
The Struggle to Appropriate Moby-Dick : Indeterminacy and Positionality	247
 4 MOBY-DICK AND THE CONTEMPORARY AMERICAN OCCASION	250
The "Vietnam Syndrome"	250
Fredric Jameson and Frank Lentricchia: Reading Michael Herr's Dispatches	252
The Postmodernity of the Vietnam War	257
Moby-Dick and the Vietnam War	266
 Notes	279
Bibliography	353
Index	365