

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	i
1. Colonial Nursing as the First Realm of Colonialist Women's Activism, 1885–1907	13
2. The Feminine Radical Nationalism of Frieda von Bülow	54
3. A New Colonial Masculinity: The Men's Debate over "Race Mixing" in the Colonies	79
4. A New Colonial Femininity: Feminism, Race Purity, and Domesticity, 1898–1914	131
5. The Woman Citizen and the Lost Colonial Empire in Weimar and Nazi Germany	172
Epilogue	201
Appendix: Colonialist and Women's Organizations	203
Notes	205
Bibliography	287
Index	325

