

■ Contents

Acknowledgments to the Second Edition xi

Acknowledgments xiii

Introduction: the repeating island i

From Columbus's machine to the sugar-making machine 5

From the apocalypse to chaos 10

From rhythm to polyrhythm 16

From literature to carnival 22

PART I SOCIETY

1 From the plantation to the Plantation 33

Hispaniola: the first plantations 39

The emergence of creole culture 43

Contraband, repression, and consequences 47

The island creole and the mainland creole 55

The Plantation and the Africanization of culture 61

The Plantation: Sociocultural regularities 72

PART 2 THE WRITER

2 Bartolomé de Las Casas: between fiction and the inferno 85

Las Casas: Historian or fabulist? 89

Las Casas and slavery 94

- The plague of ants and the uncanny 100
The piedra solimán: Sugar, genitalia, writing 104
Derivations from the “Las Casas case” 108
- 3 Nicolás Guillén: sugar mill and poetry 112
From Los ingenios to La zafra 115
From the libido to the superego 121
The Communist poet 130
The controversial poet 133
The subversive poet 139
The philosophical poet 145
- 4 Fernando Ortiz: the Caribbean and postmodernity 150
The Contrapunteo as a postmodern text 152
Between voodoo and ideology 159
A danceable language 167
Knowledge in flight 171
- 5 Carpentier and Harris: explorers of El Dorado 177
The voyage there 179
The Path of Words 183
The trip to El Dorado 186
Concerning the three voyagers 192
- P A R T 3 THE BOOK
- 6 Los pañamanes, or the memory of the skin 199
The puzzle’s next-to-last piece 201
Displacement toward myth 205
The “other” Caribbean city 211
Violence, folklore, and the Caribbean novel 214
- 7 Viaje a la semilla, or the text as spectacle 218
A canon called the crab 221
We open the door to the enchanted house 225
We close the door to the enchanted house 228
All quiet on the western front 232
Noise 234
Directions for reading the black hole 239

- 8 Niño Avilés, or history's libido 242
 Nueva Venecia, an onion 246
 Of palenques and cimarrones 249
 The temptations of Fray Agustín 256

P A R T 4 THE PARADOX

- 9 Naming the Father, naming the Mother 265
 The Father's ghost 267
 The Mother's song 270
 The unfinished matricide 273
- 10 Private reflections on García Márquez's Eréndira 276
 The captive maiden 279
 The pregnant woman 282
 The Caribbean Persephone 286
 The carnivalesque whore 289
- 11 Carnival 294
 The system's deepest layer: Guillén's "Sensemayá" 296
 The intermediate layer: Walcott's Drums and Colours 300
 The outer layer: Carpentier's Concierto barroco 303
 Carnival at last 306
- Epilogue* 313
- Notes* 317
- Index* 339

