

Contents

List of Illustrations ix

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction: Lessons Indians Can Teach
American Studies about the Rule of Individuality 1

PART ONE

Categorizing and Institutionalizing
Indians and Individuals 29

- 1 Carlisle as Individualizing Factory: Making Indians,
Individuals, Workers 31
 - Digesting “Indians”: Assimilation as Individualizing 41
 - Possessive and Domestic Individualizing: Treason to the Tribe 49
 - Complexity, Critical Thinking, and Performance at Carlisle 66
 - Pratt’s Carlisle (1879–1904): Class, Race, Warfare 78
 - Carlisle, Consumer Culture, and Loaded Cultural Relativism
(1904–1918) 85
 - Education for What? 93
- 2 The School of Savagery:
 - “Indian” Formations of Subjectivity and Carlisle 97
 - Literary Indianizing: Discourses of Native Cultural Subjectivity 98
 - Parodying Parroting: Faking Individual and Indian 120

PART TWO

Multicultural Modernity Incorporated 133

- 3 Modernist Multiculturalism: Lawrence, Luhan, and the White
Therapeutic Indianizing of “Lost” White Individuality 135
 Toward Therapeutic Imperialism: Garland and the Modernizing of Digestion Management 142
 White Therapeutic Primitivism and the Indian Business:
 Environmental, Soulful, and Literary “Indians” 145
 Giving Them the Business: “Indians” in the Therapeutic and Modernist Marketplace 152
 Rhythmic Ethnomodernism: Luhan, Lawrence, Austin, and the Fantasy of Individualized Liberation in Tribal Scenes 166
 “Indians” in the Bloodstream: The Politics of Lawrence’s Psychological
 Critique of American Individualizing 177

4 Indians Inc.:

- Collier’s New Deal Diversity Management 185
 Collier’s Saviourism: Radical Polemicist against Individualizing 189
 Anti-Imperial Romanticism: Collier as Social Theorist of “Indians” 192
 Imperial Self-Government: Reorganizing “Indians” 199
 Detours from the Therapeutic: La Farge’s and McNickle’s Fictions 211
 Taos, Collier, and the Multicultural Containment of Critique 220

Afterword: Diversity Incorporated and World Americanization 229

Appendix 1 Notes on Natives and Socialism 253

Appendix 2 A Proposal to Reopen Carlisle 257

Abbreviations in Notes 259

Notes 261

Index 321