

Contents

List of Tables and Figures ix

Preface xi

1. The Principles of Networking as a Social Process 1
 2. The Rhetoric and Design of Florentine Letter Writing 35
 3. The Socially Contested Concept of Honor 59
 4. What Gets Said When in Patronage Letters 90
 5. The Dynamics of Office Seeking 121
 6. Friends of Friends: Raccomandazione as Rhetoric and as Constitutive Principle 150
 7. Patronage and the Stalled Transformation of the State 170
 8. “Servants and Slaves in Everything and for Everything”: Renaissance Networking and the Emergent Modern Self? 193
- Conclusion: Culture and the Network 224
- Notes 231
- Bibliography 255
- Index 279

