

CONTENTS

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	vii
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	ix
INTRODUCTION Nation Formation, Popular Art, and the Search for a Mexican Aesthetic	1
Part I Indianness and the Postrevolutionary Mexican Nation	27
ONE Ethnicizing the Nation: The India Bonita Contest of 1921	29
TWO Popular Art and the Staging of Indianness	65
THREE Foreign-Mexican Collaboration, 1920–1940	95
FOUR The Postrevolutionary Cultural Project, 1916–1938	127
FIVE The Museum and the Market, 1929–1948	151
SIX Formulating a State Policy toward Popular Art, 1937–1974	175
Part II Alternative Narratives of Metropolitan Intervention: The Artisans of Olinalá, Guerrero	195
SEVEN The “Unbroken Tradition” of Olinalá from the Aztecs through the Revolution	201
EIGHT Transnational Renaissance and Local Power Struggles, 1920s to 1940s	229
NINE The Road to Olinalá, 1935–1972	263
CONCLUSIONS	289
NOTES	299
BIBLIOGRAPHY	349
INDEX	381

