

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Critical Orthodoxies: Toward a New Reading of East German Literature i

- I In the Name of the Father: East Germany's Foundational Narratives 23
 - 1 Specters of Stalin, or Constructing Communist Fathers 25
 - 2 Stalinist Motherhood, or the Hollow Spaces of Emotion: Netty Reiling/Anna Seghers 64
 - II Mapping the Oedipal Story onto Post-Fascist Socialism: New Families/New Bodies 103
 - 3 The Past in the Present: Sons, Daughters, and the Fantasy of Post-Fascist Bodies 105
 - III Inscribing the Daughter in the Paternal Narrative 135
 - 4 Post-Fascist Body/Post-Fascist Voice: Christa Wolf's *Moskau*er Novelle and Der geteilte Himmel 137
 - 5 The Paternal Family Narrative as Autobiography and as Parable: Christa Wolf's Kindheitsmuster and Kassandra 198
- History as Trauma 251
- Notes 257
- Works Cited 331
- Index 361

