

LIST OF FIGURES

0.1	Epio women, West New Guinea, finding and eating head-lice	x
5.1	Zanzibar woman collecting rocks	73
6.1	Cover of the 1961 article republished in 1983	83
7.1	The potential impact of geophagia on iron availability for absorption in the gastrointestinal tract	94
7.2	The potential impact of geophagia on zinc availability for absorption in the gastrointestinal tract	95
7.3	The potential impact of geophagia on calcium availability for absorption in the gastrointestinal tract	96
9.1	Mexican woman with pot of boiling maize	115
10.1	Additive tree, showing correlation among recognition taste thresholds for various compounds	124
10.2	Additive trees, showing the correlation among responses of isolated taste fibres (data from Hellekant et al.)	125
10.3	The parallel evolution of plants and animals	128
12.1	Woman scavenging for food at the Porta Palazzo market, Turin, Italy (Photograph: Alice Massario)	145
14.1	Woman selling insects	164
14.2	Insects served on a plate in a restaurant	174
16.1	An Eipo triumphal dance	194
18.1	Three Mexican men drinking outside a pulqueria , c. 1910. Reproduced with the permission of Fototeca del Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia, México.	216

19.1	Brazilian slave, from Arago, Souvenirs d'un Aveugle , 1839 (Handler and Steiner 2006: 56)	228
19.2	'A countryside visit', after Debret, Voyage Pittoresque et Historique au Brésil , 1836	229
19.3	Brazilian slave, with tin-mask, from Ewbank, Life in Brasil , 1856, p. 437	229
19.4	Tin-mask used on slaves, from Ewbank, Life in Brasil , 1856, p. 437	230
19.5	Brazilian slave with face mask, Le Magasin Pittoresque , 1846 (Handler and Steiner 2006: 61)	230
19.6	'Bed-stocks for intoxication' (note the face mask hanging on the wall), Bridgens, West India Scenery , 1856, Plate 32	231
19.7	'Negro Head', Bridgens, West India Scenery , 1856 (Detail of Plate 34)	232