

Contents

Acknowledgments	xi
Prologue	xiii
 BOOK THE FIRST: EUROPE
1
Descent	3
2
Early Years	7
3
Bachelor's Degrees in Amsterdam	15
4
Of Music, Films, and Other Diversions	20
5
First Contacts with Zionism	24
6
Utrecht: M.Sc. and Ph.D.	31
7
War	44
8
Occupation of Holland	52
9
Sho'ah	66
10
Wartime Experiences of My Family and Me	88

11
War's Aftermath: A Last Lesson in Dutch History	126
12
My Final Months in Holland	136
13
Getting to Know Niels Bohr	149

BOOK THE SECOND: AMERICA

14
It Is Time to Speak of America	181
15
The State of the Union 1946: The U.S., Princeton, and the Institute for Advanced Study	191
16
Enter Einstein and Other Interesting New Acquaintances	200
17
In Which Oppenheimer Becomes Director and I a Long-Term Member of the Institute	219
18
Oppenheimer: Glimpses of a Complex Man	235
19
My Career Unfolds	244
20
About Unexpected New Physics, Old Friends, and a Grand Tour	265
21
Of the Beginnings of Theoretical Particle Physics, Some Baseball History, and Two Long Summer Journeys	284
22
Of Symmetry and My Longest Journey	302
23
Greenwich Village, American Citizenship, and the Oppenheimer Affair	321

24
Of My Best Work and a Year's Leave of Absence. Death of Einstein	333
25
My First Trip to Russia and My First Marriage	349
26
Enter Joshua. The 1950s, Concluded	358
27
Times of Great Change: The Early 1960s	369
28
Changing My Workplace from Princeton to New York	385
29
What Befell Me in the Late 1960s	399
30
The 1970s	408
31
A Career Change	425
32
My Final Years—So Far	446
33
Approaching the Millennium	467
Notes and References	477
Onomasticon	505

