

Contents

Foreword	ix
Beverly Guy-Sheftall
Acknowledgments	xi

PART I. FEMINIST RACE THEORY

1. Teaching Theory, Talking Community	3
2. Politicizing the Spirit: Toni Morrison	9
3. Black Feminism in Liberation Limbos	25
4. Resting in Gardens, Battling in Deserts: Black Women's Activism	37
5. Radicalizing Black Feminism	47
6. Angela Y. Davis: Liberation Praxis	67
7. Assata Shakur and Black Female Agency	93

PART II. DEMOCRACY AND CAPTIVITY

8. Democracy and Captivity	119
9. Black Suffering in Search of the "Beloved Community"	143
10. American Prison Notebooks	153
11. Violations	185
12. War, Dissent, and Social Justice	197
13. Academia, Activism, and Imprisoned Intellectuals	207

PART III. SOVEREIGN POLITICAL SUBJECTS

14. Activist Scholars or Radical Subjects?	215
15. Campaigns Against Blackness	223
16. Sovereign Kinship and the President Elect	251
17. The Dead Zone	269
18. Racism, Genocide, and Resistance	293
19. "All Power to the People!": Arendt's Communicative Power in a Racial Democracy	307