

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I want to thank my wife Bunny and my lifelong friend and photographer Robert Carlo for their valuable suggestions for the selection of photographs for this book. I also want to thank my friend and colleague at Yale University, Christopher Killheffer, for editing the text. Many thanks to my friend and former co-worker Robert LaRocca, a North Ender and community advocate who ran the youth program at the North End Neighborhood Service Center and helped identify some of the people captured in this book. Thanks also to Vito Aluia; Tommy Damigella; Paul D'Amore, president of the Sant Antonio di Padua di Montefalcione Society; Maria DeMarco Siciliano; Carmen Federico; Arthur Sonny Lauretano; Gus Maniscalco; Sharon Salvati; John Pagliuca; Aldo Parziale; and Valerie A. Toscano-Kean for helping me identify the people and places of the North End I photographed nearly four decades ago. And finally, I wish to thank SUNY Press co-director James Peltz, production editor Jenn Bennett, and book designer Laurie Searl for their outstanding efforts to make my dream of this photography book come true.

My grandmother Cesarina Riccio at 95 looking out her kitchen window at 163 Fairmont Avenue in New Haven, Connecticut, 1984.