

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Note on Chinese and Translations	ix
Glossary of Terms and Abbreviations	x
Introduction	i
Introduction	i
Previous Studies of the MLG	3
Explaining Policy in China	8
Theoretical Approach of the Book	12
A Note on Methods	17
Structure of the Book	18
1 Historical Background to Dibao and the Question of Poverty in China	21
Introduction	21
Social Assistance before 1992	22
A History of Dibao	26
Nature of Poverty in Reform Era China	40
2 Urban Dibao: Emergence and Transition to National Policy, 1992–1999	46
Introduction	46
Emergence and Spread of the MLG	47
National Implementation of the MLG: 1997–1999	59
Conclusion	65
3 Urban Dibao: The Resolution of Unwanted and Unintended Outcomes, 1999–2003	67
Introduction	67
Unintended and Unwanted Outcomes	68
Interventions	73
The Ministry of Civil Affairs during Zhu’s Intervention and after	82
Conclusion	87

4	Rural Dibao: The Countryside and Fragmentation	89
	Introduction	89
	The Timeline, Design and Function of Rural Dibao	90
	Successes and Challenges of Rural Dibao	93
	How Fragmentation Facilitated and Challenges Rural Dibao	98
	Conclusion	104
5	Institutionalisation? Achieving Policy in a Fragmented State	106
	Introduction	106
	The Importance of Institutionalisation	107
	Dibao 's Lack of Institutionalisation	109
	A Consequence of Fragmentation?	121
	Can Institutionalisation Resolve Fragmentation?	123
	Should Institutionalisation Resolve Fragmentation?	125
	Could China Learn from Other Countries?	126
	Conclusion	129
	Conclusion	132
	Introduction	132
	Goals of the Study	132
	Main Findings	134
	Contribution to China Studies	137
	Contribution beyond China Studies	139
	Reflection and Future Research	140
	Appendix: Interview List	143
	Bibliography	144
	Index	166