

FIGURES

2.1	Fabrice and Céline embrace along with their son, dressed as a Gille (a traditional costume) during the local carnival at the conclusion of Je pense à vous	52
2.2	In Le silence de Lorna , Lorna and Sokol dance in a Liégeois bar, with an image of Seraing in its pomp, hidden in the background	65
2.3	Sandra meets with Mireille in the reception area of her apartment block in Deux jours, une nuit	71
2.4	In Deux jours, une nuit , Sandra takes her Xanax pills as she travels to her next meeting on the bus, with the Meuse glimpsed in the background	72
2.5	Cyril looks on as a group of children from the Val-Potet estate play a game of five-a-side football	74
2.6	Cyril and Samantha ride along the banks of the Meuse, with the lateral movement of the camera running by their side	78
3.1	The camera retreats backwards, revealing the farmhouse before unrolling through a country lane and a series of fields	89
3.2	The concluding image of Le grand paysage d'Alexis Droeven is the sole farmhouse in the Fourons	90
3.3	Lafosse opts to break free from the focus on the character, adopting a figurative frame as the father (Jan) suffocates his son (Thomas)	93
3.4	Pascale and her two sons François and Thierry sit around the table	96

4.1	In Chambre froide , Rita stands atop a slag heap on the fringes of the city of Charleroi	114
4.2	In Déjà s'envole la fleur maigre , Domenico introduces the young Luigi to the Borinage and its issues of unemployment	115
4.3	The opening image of Chambre froide reveals Rita and her mother visiting the grave of her deceased father, with the steel plants in the background	117
4.4	Cages' title sequence unrolls on the majestic cliffs of Nord-Pas-de-Calais	120
4.5	Before Eve walks on stage to confront her inability to speak, Masset-Depasse focuses on Eve's eyes through a noirish vertical pattern of lighting	124
4.6	Eve confronts Damien, after realising that he is having an affair with Léa. Rainwater operates as a key motif in the sequence	127
5.1	Dimitri caresses a pair of tights, as he sits alone on the periphery of the city of Liège	135
5.2	In Ultranova , the camera dollies forward through the mundane warehouse, full of boxes, but with a limited number of workers	138
5.3	The opening sequence of Ultranova ends with an image of Dimitri standing alone next to his upturned car	140
5.4	In Eldorado , Lanners fixes the camera on the agricultural fields of Wallonia for twenty-three seconds, leaving the spectator to notice the slight movement of the clouds and the flickering of the wheatgrass in the wind	143
5.5	Yvan finds Elie still standing at the crossroads on the outskirts of the city of Liège	149
6.1	Patrick's family, alongside Marc, Robert and Jean-Pierre, sing ' La p'tite gayole '	162
6.2	Carole's broken-down mobylette is walked back by Patrick	167
6.3	Marc and Robert have a heated discussion against the backdrop of the abstract lights that evoke the recycling and breaking-down of the former steel plant	168