

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This volume is one of three publications that came out of a conference organised at the University of Chester in May 2016. The conference provided a unique platform to bring researchers from a variety of disciplines together who work on Shi'a minorities in non-Muslim contexts. The conference concluded the project “Karbala in London”: Transnational Twelver Shia Networks between Britain and the Middle East’ that investigated Twelver Shi'a organisations and communities based in London. The project was funded by a research grant of the Gerda Henkel Foundation. We would like to thank the Gerda Henkel Foundation for providing the funding for the project and this publication and for making the conference in Chester possible.

In particular, we owe thanks to the contributors to this volume for their patience in the longer than expected journey of putting this volume together. We are also grateful to Nicola Ramsey and Kirsty Woods at Edinburgh University Press for their support for this book project.
