

Contents

Acknowledgments	vi
Introduction: Goethe's Faust , Giorgio Agamben, and International Law	1
1 'Behold, I tell you a mystery': Tracing Faust's Influences on Giorgio Agamben to and from International Law	11
2 Reading Faust into International Criminal Law's Metaphorical References to the Devil	33
3 What is Real about Experimental Norms? Thinking with Giorgio Agamben about Medical Trials	59
4 Carl Schmitt as a Subject and Object of International Criminal Law: Ethical Judgement In Extremis	72
5 Saving Humanity from Hell: International Criminal Law and Permanent Crisis	90
6 Artificial Islands, Artificial Highways and Pirates: An East African Perspective on the South China Sea Disputes	111
7 Follow your Leader – I Prefer Not to: Models for Non-violent Resistance in Giorgio Agamben via Herman Melville	136
8 The President's Two Bodies: A Study in Applied Political Theology	152
9 People, Politics and Populism in International Criminal Law	158
10 War! What is it Good For? Law, Violence, the 'Laudes Regiae' and Laudatory Reggae	178
References	191
Index	210