

LIST OF FIGURES, PLATES AND TABLES

FIGURES

1.1	The rainforest belt in West Africa	5
3.1	Sierra Leone: administrative divisions	44
3.2	Sierra Leone: forest reserves	45
3.3	Gola North: settlement and communications	51
3.4	Malema chiefdom: settlement and communications	53
3.5	Madina village	56
4.1	The upland-swamp catena	70
4.2	Calendar of main annual farming activities	75
4.3	Size and composition of rice farm-households	86
4.4	Intercrop-planting patterns	91
5.1	Tree-crop farm establishment	105
5.2	Calendar of main tree-crop farming activities	112

PLATES

3.1	View across Gola North forest reserve from the farmbush surrounding the reserve-edge settlements	47
3.2	Gola North reserve viewed from the Moro river	47
3.3	The interior of the village	54
3.4	Madina village approached from the southerly path	54
3.5	Girls dance at the coming-out ceremony of their initiation into Sande	59
3.6	A senior Sande society official and an acknowledged 'big woman'	61
4.1	A mosaic of (1) farm (kpa); (2) farmbush (ndogbo); (3) last year's farm (njɔpɔ); and (4) high forest (ngola)	71
4.2	A man fells a forest tree to open up a new upland farm-site	73
4.3	A catenary upland rice farm fully planted with rice and intercrops	74
4.4	A woman digs for the sweet potatoes she intercropped with her household's rice	78

4.5	A young woman harvests upland rice	83
4.6	A woman and her daughter transplant swamp-rice seedlings	94
5.1	A woman works on the harvest of her husband's coffee crop	114
5.2	A husband and wife collect and break harvested cocoa pods	115
6.1	Co-wives extract red oil from palm fruit in the special pit in farmbush near the village	133
6.2	A man makes a pot trap for fish	137
6.3	Village men operate a pit-saw to cut planks for local use	142
7.1	A spring trap set into the fence around a rice farm to catch cane rats	160
7.2	One of Malema chiefdom's well-known, but now elderly, kamajo hunters	163
7.3	A women's dry-season fishing group at work in a stream near the village, using scoop nets	174
8.1	Kitchens are a preferred place in the village for women of all generations to socialise and care for children	202

TABLES

1.1	Distribution of closed broadleaved forests in West Africa, 1980	6
3.1	Populations in the Gola forest region	50
3.2	Population of Madina divided by gender and age	57
3.3	Population of Madina divided by local categories	57
3.4	Citizens and strangers in Madina	63
3.5	Marital status, men	65
3.6	Marital status, women	65
3.7	Residential house types in Madina	66
3.8	Women's house occupancy	66
4.1	Farm-household site types in Madina, 1987-90	95
5.1	Tree-crop caretaking labour arrangements in Madina, 1988	122
5.2	Inherited tree-crop caretaking roles in Madina	124
6.1	Building materials used in villages around Gola North	135
6.2	Preferred fuelwood species, 60 Madina women	139
6.3	Fuelwood-gathering grounds in different seasons	148
8.1	Husbands' and wives' contributions to food expenditures	192
8.2	Husbands' and wives' contributions to non-food expenditures	192
8.3	Food-provisioning through gifts and networks	198
8.4	Kitchen-sharing arrangements, 1988	205