

CONTENTS

List of Figures and Tables	vii
Preface	viii
Notes on Contributors	xi
1. Introduction: Rethinking Transition Theory after the ‘Arab Moment’	1
Abdelwahab El-Affendi and Khalil Al-Anani
2. Democratic Transition Studies: Lessons from Another Region	22
Azmi Bishara
3. The Moderation of Insecurity: Standing the Eurocentric Democratic Transition Paradigm on its Head	58
Abdelwahab El-Affendi
4. After the Arab Spring	89
Asef Bayat
5. Revolutions and the Colonial Question	112
Hamid Dabashi
6. Authoritarian Regime Types as an Alternative to the Transition Paradigm: A Critical Assessment	136
Luai Ali

7. Visible and Invisible Political Actors and their Strategies during the Arab Spring Transitions Abdel-Fattah Mady	160
8. Elite Women and Democratisation in Morocco, 1998–2016 Tourya Essaoudi	187
9. Rethinking Religion and Democratic Transition: Lessons from the Arab World Khalil Al-Anani	213
10. Democratic Transition in Rivalry Contexts Marwan Kabalan	230
11. The ‘Arab Spring’ and the Challenges of Security Sector Reform Omar Ashour and Dana El Kurd	251
Concluding Remarks: On Viruses, Phantom Actors and Other Colonial Ghosts Abdelwahab El-Affendi	274
Index	283