List of Tables

Tab. 2.1	Hybrid nouns for different phi-features — 18
Tab. 2.2	Lexical variation in CNP semantic agreement (Levin, 2001) —— 19
Tab. 3.1	Grammatical roles and agreement controllers —— 63
Tab. 3.2	Case and agreement controllers (Table 3.1 restated) —— 63
Tab. 3.3	Case and agreement controllers: ergative-absolutive alignment. —— 64
Tab. 4.1	Logically possible combinations with multiple targets —— 82
Tab. 4.2	Actually attested combinations with multiple targets —— 82
Tab. 4.3	Targets that show semantic agreement with CNPs —— 84
Tab. 4.4	Targets that show semantic agreement with English singular Imposters —— 84
Tab. 4.5	Possible Agreement Hierarchy patterns regarding possibility of semantic agreement —— 84
Tab. 4.6	Some impossible Agreement Hierarchy patterns regarding possibility of semantic agreement —— 85
Tab. 4.7	Plural versus singular agreement in American, Australian and British English —— 85
Tab. 4.8	Plural versus singular agreement in written and spoken British English —— 86
Tab. 4.9	Plural versus singular agreement in written and spoken American English —— 86
Tab. 4.10	Sentential level mismatches and the Agreement Hierarchy —— 92
Tab. 4.10	Order of adjectives in Hebrew and English, from Shlonsky, 2004. —— 103
1au. 4.11	order of adjectives in fieblew and English, from Shionsky, 2004. —— 103
Tab. 5.1	Explanation of potential subject positions according to Glushan (2013). —— 157
Tab. 7.1	Properties of furniture -nouns when compared to mass and count nouns —— 186
Tab. 8.1	Summary of mass–count properties of niiLLu and paalu —— 223
Tab. 8.2	A mass-count spectrum of sorts —— 230
Tab. 8.3	Many vs. much in plural mass nouns —— 235
Tab. 8.4	Inherent feature combinations with $n_{-\mathrm{Div}}$ and $n_{+\mathrm{Div}}$ —— 247
Tab. 8.5	Possible inherent number combinations with $n_{+\text{DIV}}$ —— 248
Tab. 8.6	Possible inherent number combinations with $n_{-\text{DIV}}$ —— 249
Tab. 8.7	Summary of the feature combination typology —— 251