Acknowledgments

We thank our contributors for their perseverance and patience, and for embracing the themes of the collection; Octavia Cade, for her expert and eagle-eyed copyediting; Lisa Hopkins, for agreeing to write the book's foreword, and for her support throughout the project; Christine Henschel at De Gruyter, for doing a superb job of overseeing the book's production; and Erika Gaffney, for being the best commissioning editor a pair of academics could ask for.

Aidan would like to thank Mark, their co-editor, for his good humor and for being a much-needed link back to Aotearoa; the members (especially Jayne Sweet) of the Centre for the Study of the Renaissance at the University of Warwick for their support and encouragement; and Marina Gerzic, Joseph Massey, Sophie Shorland, and Lyn Tribble for fruitful and heartening discussions about the collection in the various stages of its existence.

Mark would like to thank Aidan, his co-editor, for their pertinacity; the Division of Arts, Law, Psychology, and Social Sciences at the University of Waikato for periods of research leave and research grants; and finally the Australasian community of Shakespearean and early modern scholars in ANZSA and ANZAMEMS for their support and enthusiasm: "constantly causing a stir to the mind," as George Puttenham puts it.