Maps

- Map 1 Map of Hittite Anatolia based on Bryce 2005: Map 3, with indication of the target area of the present work — 37
- Map 2 Modern topographic map of the target area — 38
- Map 3 The boundaries of Tarhuntassa according to the BT: proposed topographic reconstruction (hashed lines). Italics are used for the toponyms mentioned in the BT. Italicized and underlined toponyms are those mentioned in the BT as sitting directly on the border — 181
- Map 4 Approximate extension of the Hittite Lower Land (Roman routes on the background) — 239
- Map 5 Palimpsest map of EBA and MBA areal interactions — 258
- Map 6 Survey areas and excavated sites in the target area and neighboring regions — 260
- Map 7 LBA and connectivity patterns. Basemap: relief map, with overlay of Least Cost Corridors (after Matessi 2021: Fig. 3) — 277
- Map 8 The Late Bronze Age archaeological landscape in South-Central Anatolia and possible communication routes. Sites database re-elaborated upon the KRASP legacy survey data, with kind permission of the director, Michele Massa. Hittite monuments numbered as in Map 3. Basemap: ESRI Satellite — 280
- Map 9 Searching area of Tarhuntassa with main candidate sites — 289
- Map 10 Interactions in South-Central Anatolia during the Old Kingdom — 299
- Map 11 Interactions in South-Central Anatolia during the earlier Empire period (late 15th–mid-13th century BCE) — 300
- Map 12 Interactions in South-Central Anatolia during the later Empire period (second half of 13th century BCE) — 301

Figures

- Fig. 1 Abstract representation of intersecting curving itineraries matching the comparison of the toponyms involved in the Annals of Hattusili III and BT Entries 14-18, as represented in Table 7 — 73
- Fig. 2 The Çağdın stele, now on display at the Adana Museum of Archaeology, with detail on the URBS sign. Photo by the author — 95
- Fig. 3 Schematic topological representation of the boundaries of Tarhuntassa according to the boundary descriptions of the BT. Numbers refer to the relevant boundary sections (BSec) as listed in Tables 4–5 — 179
- Fig. 4 Schematic model of the composite territoriality of Tarhuntassa (T), inclusive of the bounded territory of the Hulaya-River Land (HL) and dispersed enclaves — 200
- Fig. 5 Resumptive scheme of topological relations between Ussa/ Lower Land, Hatti and other associated toponyms — 237
