

Contents

Introduction: Ruins and Debris of a Contested History	1
1. After Italian Totalitarianism	27
2. The Language of Responsibility	65
3. Ghosts from a Recent Past	96
4. Carlo Levi on the Religion of the State	140
5. Curzio Malaparte, a Tragic Modernity	172
Conclusion: Tearing Down the Monuments	199
Acknowledgments	205
Notes	209
Bibliography	265
Index	295

People think that suffering makes them better, saves their soul, earns them paradise, that it's the necessary condition of happiness. It would suffice to renounce paradise. As I did.

—Alberto Savinio, New Encyclopedia

