Joyce Studies Annual

*Founded by Thomas Staley, University of Texas, 1989
Acquired and published by Fordham University Press, 2007*

Joyce Studies Annual is published annually by Fordham University Press, beginning in 2007, and coedited by Professors Moshe Gold and Philip Sicker of the Fordham University English Department. Joyce Studies Annual was founded by Thomas Staley at the University of Texas and was published there under his editorship for fourteen years, through 2003.

CONTENTS: The editors invite significant contributions on Joyce and closely related topics. In keeping with its founding tradition, JSA publishes essays of greater length and scope than are normally found in scholarly journals. While not limited to longer essays, it welcomes ambitious studies in the areas of textual, historical, theoretical, and comparative analysis. We will consider essays up to 50 manuscript pages.

MANUSCRIPTS AND EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE: Please send manuscripts, inquiries, and editorial correspondence to Philip Sicker and Moshe Gold, Joyce Studies Annual, Department of English, Fordham University, Bronx, NY 10458. Writers should send manuscripts as both hard copy and disk, and forward electronic versions as Microsoft Word attachments to sicker@fordham.edu and mgold@fordham.edu.

STYLE: Manuscripts must conform to The Chicago Manual of Style. Unless otherwise indicated, essays should reference the standard editions of Joyce's works listed below. References to these editions and to Ellmann's biography should be cited parenthetically within the body of the essay, using the abbreviations below. Quotations from Ulysses should be cited by episode and line number; quotations from Finnegans Wake should be cited by page and line number.
