Table of Contents

Foreword	viii
Preface	xi
Acknowledgements	xviii
Introduction	xix
Chapter 1. Halakha—The Foundation of Jewish Law and Life	1
Chapter 2. Education and Literacy: The Path to Good Health	13
Social Support
Chapter 3. Charity—Das Jüdische Herz	47
Chapter 4. Family First	62
Health-Related Behaviors
Chapter 5. Childrearing Practices and Attitudes	81
Chapter 6. Alcoholism among the Jews	93
Human Capital
Chapter 7. Housing and Jobs in the New World—Health Against All O	dds 107
Implications
Chapter 8. Socioeconomic Status and Health	135
Chapter 9. Health, Culture, and Wealth	150
Appendix I	169
Woodbury Data on Neonatal and Infant Mortality	169
Maternal Mortality and Maternal Age	171
Birth Intervals	172
Breastfeeding and Infant Mortality	173

vi Table of Contents

Housing Congestion and Neonatal Survival	173
Maternal Employment During Pregnancy	174
Mortality in Later Ages	174
Pulmonary Data	175
Appendix II	177
Sources Corroborating Comparatively Low Rates of Tuberculosis
among Jews in Eastern Europe	177
Sources Corroborating Comparatively Low Rates of Infection
among Jews	178
Sources Corroborating Comparatively Low Rates of Influenza
among Jews	178
Sources Corroborating Comparatively Low Rates of Typhoid
Fever among Jews	178
Sources Corroborating Comparatively Low Rates of Mortality
Associated with Whooping Cough, Scarlet Fever, and
Measles among Jews	179
Sources Corroborating Comparatively Low Rates of Syphilis
among Jews	179
Sources Corroborating Alcohol Consumption Among Jews	180
Appendix III	181
Additional Reading	181
Index	185