

Acknowledgments

This book, Taiwan: The Development of an Asian Tiger, was inspired by a conference titled “The Maturation of a Mini-Dragon: Seventy Years of the Republic of China on Taiwan,” held by the Taiwan and East Asia Studies Program of the Center for International Studies at the University of St. Thomas. The conference was graciously sponsored by a Taiwan studies grant from the Ministry of Education of the Republic of China on Taiwan and the Taiwanese Chamber of Commerce of Greater Houston.

We would like to thank the Ministry of Education of the Republic of China on Taiwan for two Taiwan studies grants (2016–2018 and 2019–2023) that have allowed for our expansion of Taiwan studies via curriculum, conferences, and scholarly exchanges. We extend a special thanks to Sophie Hui-Yi Chou, director of the Education Division at the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office in Houston, for her unwavering support and friendship. An additional special debt is owed to the support of community leaders including Jackson Chang, Amy Coburn, Frank Fong, Sue Hsiao, Rocky Lai, Frank Liang, Sue-jen Tsai, Don Wang, Jack Wu, and Louis Wu.

In addition, we are grateful to the contributors to the volume. Their knowledge and expertise profoundly impact the way we all seek to understand Taiwan and its role in the world. It is our honor to work with these distinguished scholars, and we are pleased to be their colleagues in promoting Taiwan studies throughout North America and the world. Special thanks to our acquisitions editor, Marie-Claire Antoine, for her guidance and immense patience during this project.

viii Acknowledgments

Last but not least, we acknowledge with gratitude the loving support of our families. We ultimately dedicate this work to them:

Hans Stockton—to my wife, Sharon, and my children, Lily Rose and Mia Sophie.

Yao-Yuan Yeh—to my wife, Yu-Lin Huang, and my children, Mu-Liang and Rousi.