

Contents

---

Acknowledgments	vii
 1 Comparing and Rethinking Political Change in China and Taiwan Bruce Gilley	 1
 Part 1 Civil Society and the State
 2 The Evolution of Political Values Yun-han Chu	 27
3 Intellectual Pluralism and Dissent Merle Goldman and Ashley Esarey	49
4 Religion and the Emergence of Civil Society Richard Madsen	79
5 Business Groups: For or Against the Regime? Dorothy J. Solinger	95
 Part 2 Regime Responses
 6 Responsive Authoritarianism Robert P. Weller	 117

7	Developing the Rule of Law Randall Peerenboom and Weitseng Chen	135
8	Competitive Elections Tun-jen Cheng and Gang Lin	161
9	International Pressures and Domestic Pushback Jacques deLisle	185
 Part 3 Looking Forward
10	Taiwan's Democratic Transition: A Model for China? Bruce Gilley	215
11	Why China's Democratic Transition Will Differ from Taiwan's Larry Diamond	243
 References		259
The Contributors		291
Index		295
About the Book		309