

---

ILLUSTRATIONS

---

Tables

2.1	Population in South and East Asia	15
2.2	Economic Development in South and East Asia	17
2.3	Indicators of Economic Structure, 1993	20
2.4	Indicators of Policy Liberalism, 1993	24
2.5	National Savings and Investment Rates, 1993	26
2.6	National Educational Performance	28
2.7	Annual Average Growth, 1980–1993	30
2.8	Structure of Industrial Exports, 1993	32
2.9	Income Distribution	34
2.10	National Quality of Life Indicators, 1993	35
3.1	Contrasting Implications Drawn from Product-Cycle Theory	44
3.2	South vs. East Asia “Packages” of Economic Policies	48
4.1	Comparison of Economic Development in North and South Korea	65
4.2	Average Annual Industrial Wages, 1987	75
4.3	The Sumitomo Business Conglomerate	77
4.4	The NEC Supply Keiretsu	77
4.5	Indicators of Industrial Concentration	81
4.6	Role of Foreign Capital in Singapore’s Manufacturing, 1982	84
4.7	Percentage of Commodities Sold at State-Set Prices	89
4.8	China’s Export Performance	90
5.1	Growth Rates of Industrial Production	98
5.2	State and Private Shares of Industry in India, mid-1980s	101
5.3	India’s Performance in Computer and Software Industries	104
6.1	Structural Characteristics of a Developmental State	142
6.2	State Roles in Development	149

Figures

4.1	Interacting Dynamics Among Social, Political, and Economic Change in Taiwan	72
5.1	Model of How Patronage/Democracy Contradictions Undercut State Power	109
5.2	Model of Economic and Political Consequences of Self-Reliant Socialism	113