

Contents

List of Tables	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction
Migration and the Politics of Reproduction and Health: Tracking Global Flows through Ethnography Sunil K. Khanna and Maya Unnithan-Kumar
1	Migration, Belonging and the Body that Births: Pakistani Women in Britain Kaveri Qureshi	14
2	To Be or Not to Be? Cape Verdean Student Mothers in Portugal Elizabeth P. Challinor	33
3	‘Good Women Stay at Home, Bad Women Go Everywhere’: Agency, Sexuality and Self in Sri Lankan Migrant Narratives Sajida Z. Ally	50
4	‘That’s Not a Religious Thing, That’s a Cultural Thing’: Culture in the Provision of Health Services for Bangladeshi Mothers in East London Laura Griffith	77
5	Health Inequalities and Perceptions of Place: Migrant Mothers’ Accounts of Birth and Loss in North-West India Maya Unnithan-Kumar	93

6	Acculturation and Experiences of Post-partum Depression amongst Immigrant Mothers: Cultural Competency in Medicine Mirabelle E. Fernandes-Paul	113
7	'A Mother Who Stays but Cannot Provide Is Not as Good': Migrant Mothers in Hanoi, Vietnam Catherine Locke, Nguyen Thi Ngan Hoa and Nguyen Thi Thanh Tam	127
8	'A City-Walla Prefers a Small Family': Son Preference and Sex Selection among Punjabi Migrant Families in Urban India Sunil K. Khanna	152
9	Restoring the Connection: Aboriginal Midwifery and Relocation for Childbirth in First Nation Communities in Canada Rachel Olson	169
	Notes on Contributors	191
	Index	195