

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This English edition is greatly indebted to its contributors, who have reviewed their texts, brought their bibliographies up to date since the French edition in 2012 and read and approved the translations. We extend our warm thanks to them for their time and help in this work. Our gratitude is also due to those who worked so hard and fruitfully for the success of the international conference in November 2011, where this publication originated. Their contribution lies beyond formal acknowledgement: the photographer Edmund Clark and his work on Guantanamo (2010); the musicians – Mehri Bouraï and Clara Lefèvre – of the orchestra Mélo'dix (Université de Paris Ouest Nanterre – La Défense) for their performance of the 'Huyton Suite' by Hans Gál, conducted by Suzanne Snizek, and its présidente Clémentine Richard. We thank also the actors – Camille Vansimaey and Vashi Ramessur – for their readings of Georges Mongrédien's works in captivity (Pathé, Potin and Théofilakis 2010); and the students of the Université de Paris Ouest Nanterre – La Défense (Amaury Bernard, Alban Broquet, Elsa Costes, Christophe Mikovic, Pedro Pereira Barroso, Amandine Robinet, Alexandre Sellem and Léonard Vaillant) who ensured the smooth running of this event. Thanks are also due to Sarah Frank and Deborah Barton for their careful re-readings. We are deeply grateful to all of them.

The event of November 2011 and the publications that have followed from it have been made possible through the continuing support of many institutions and teams. We wish in particular to thank the Direction de la Mémoire, du Patrimoine et des Archives at the Ministère de la Défense, especially Laurent Veyssière and Joseph Zimet; the Institut d'histoire du temps présent and its directors Christian Ingrao and Christian Delage; the Institut universitaire de France and the Université de Paris Ouest Nanterre – La Défense, through to the unfailing engagement and support of Professor Annette Becker; the European research group EURHISTXX directed by Henry Rousso (IHTP – CNRS); the Centre national de la recherche scientifique; the Institut de recherche stratégique at the Ecole militaire and Hervé Drévilion, then Director of the section ‘Histoire de la défense et de l’armement’; the Etablissement Communication et de Production Audiovisuelle de la Défense, its director Isabelle Gougenheim and the former head of the Archives section Violaine Challéat-Fonck; and the Centre national du livre for its support of the English translation.

In 2012 the publishers Armand Colin (Paris) honoured us with the publication of the French edition in their ‘Recherches’ collection. For the English edition we wish to thank Berghahn Books for including it in their series ‘Contemporary European History’, and also Helen McPhail for her care in undertaking the English translation.
